

THE PARK AT OGLETHORPE

Our Builder's Guild Profiles

Hask Construction was originally started in 1975 when Hasan Kelekci believed there was a need for well-designed, carefully-engineered homes in the Atlanta market. Mr. Kelekci, a masters degree graduate in Civil Engineering from the University of Southern California, had previously worked on many commercial and residential projects. Now in the new millennium, Mr. Kelekci has teamed up with his son, Al (also an engineer from Auburn University) to continue delivering quality residential construction. Together they have over 55 years of construction experience and 33 years of homebuilding experience. Each home is a collaborative effort with Atlanta's top architectural firms such as Harrison Design Associates to bring you a plan that is customized for the property where it is built. The design reflects accurate proportion and scale resulting in a permanently classic home. These builders take pride in that they are personally involved in every detail from design to finish.

Whitestone Custom Homes—A native Atlantan, Todd Allmond knew at a young age he wanted to be in the building business. He began his career as a carpenter in 1984. His attention to details and passion for quality combined with his love of beautiful architecture has made him one of Atlanta's best builders. Todd's dedication is not only reflected in his homes but in his relationships with his clients. Todd puts his heart into every home as if he is going to live there. He lives by the motto of "Treat people like you want to be treated". Todd has partnered with Rob and Phyllis Myers. Rob is currently one of the featured builders in the prestigious River Club community. Both Rob and Phyllis have been involved in residential construction since 1984. The knowledge, experience and creativity of Whitestone ensures a truly custom building experience. The Whitestone Custom Homes team represents over sixty years of custom home building experience.

Cowart Homes—It was only natural for Atlanta native Ron Cowart, whose family includes homebuilders and developers, to carve out a career in the homebuilding industry. Being a third generation builder, his training began at an early age. For the past 25 years, Ron Cowart has built some of the finest custom homes in the most prestigious neighborhoods in metro Atlanta. With the added benefit of holding an accounting degree and being a code certified member of the international Code Council, Ron is well trained to build distinctive quality homes. Ron has been joined by his sons, Blake and Adam, who will represent the fourth generation of homebuilders. Both are graduates of the University of Georgia. Blake is also a code certified building inspector and a member of the ICC. The Cowarts' represent a family tradition of fine homebuilding and are personally involved in every step of the construction process of their homes.

Joel Construction Company's mission is to build high quality custom homes and remodeling projects by offering the highest degree of personal service and professionalism throughout the entire building process. Joel Construction Company has been making its mark on the Atlanta home-building scene since 1982. Company founder, Jim Joel, whose family has been building since 1946, focuses on customer satisfaction throughout the process of building finely crafted Traditional and European homes. Matt Joel, Vice President, has personally overseen the construction of the homes built in The Park at Oglethorpe and is personally committed to delivering an unsurpassed home building experience. Joel Construction's extensive warranty program ensures quick response to any owner concerns, followed by immediate action.

Samir Properties— Sid Tejpaal, Vice President of Samir Properties, Inc., has been successfully building homes in and around the Atlanta area for over eight years. Sid is inspired by historical architecture, which he incorporates into his custom homes. His primary focus centers around each individual customers dreams while paying attention to detail, authenticity of materials and hand craftsmanship. During his career, Sid has built homes ranging from $250,000 to multi-million dollar estates. During the past few years the company has focused on the construction of luxury homes. Samir Properties has created a market niche also by building homes for several home owners on a cost plus basis. Working with Sid guarantees a personal partnership during your home building experience. A builder who appreciates personal style and individual tastes, Sid is also a member of the Greater Walton Builders Association and the National Association of Home Builders.
