

Happy New Year!

What a blessing to be starting a new year and reflecting on 2009. Even though 2009 a challenging real estate year for my buyers and sellers, we are anticipating much better activity and results in 2010. My team continues to work hard. What a blessing Jaclyn and Laura are to me. Larry and I celebrated our fabulous 40th anniversary and “honeymoon” in August, and we continue to celebrate our wonderful life together.

Lara had a challenging year with her health. We are so happy that she is currently doing well and is amazingly healthy and happy ever since Larry took over and eliminated all meds. What an answer to so many prayers. Lara is currently job searching so any leads for her would be greatly appreciated.

In July, our precious Mom Burchett went home to be with the Lord, removing all her earthly pain. Mom was ready, and we surrounded her as we passed her to Jesus’ arms. We are so thankful for her love and legacy.

My Mom is now going great and back home with her wonderful caregiver, Susie. After Mom Burchett’s death, my mom suffered a stroke. She was rehabbed back to home, fell within a week, and went through rehab again. After much work and effort, she was able to come home again on Thanksgiving Day.

We had a great holiday season in Richmond, Hampton and Portsmouth. The icing on the cake was a visit from Buddy, my brother. We are so blessed to be sharing life with him. Mom, Susie and I flew to Orlando to visit Buddy in February, and Larry and I flew back to Naples to visit in March. We have so much fun together.

So as we head into 2010, we have our goals and plans in place – always anticipating what God has in store for us. Thank you for your continuing love, prayers and support.

Love, Linda
