Randy says...

So there I was, as happy as could be, packed and off to college. I arrived. I unloaded. I set everything up. Life was great!! And then...the bomb hit me! I had to leave and let my daughter stay. Where was I to go? What was I to do? My wife had tears of joy in her eyes. Fortunately, we bought a house in Nashua 7 years ago and made it our home. So there I am, as happy as can be.

PS—you can be just as happy! Let us help you find a house to call home. I appreciate referrals!

Tip of the month . . .

It is important to know how much you can afford before you begin looking at homes in town. You should also talk with a lender and get pre-approved for a loan. This puts you in a stronger negotiating position with a seller. As a rule, your monthly housing costs should not be more than 28% of your monthly pre-tax income, including the mortgage payment, real estate taxes, and insurance. If you have long-term debts, such as student loans or car payments, your monthly payments, including your housing costs, should be less than 36% of your pre-tax monthly income. Some loans, such as VA and FHA loans, are more flexible with these basic guidelines. Depending on which type of mortgage you select, you can consider houses in various price ranges. An adjustable-rate mortgage will usually enable you to qualify for a higher loan amount. Your Realtor can help you make the basic calculations.
