Property sales are definitely up compared to the same time period last year. It appears that the major correction we saw in 2006 has leveled off. While some towns are not as strong as last year, such as Sudbury, all indicators point to 2007 being a better year with more consumer confidence as mortgage rates remain low and steady. Most of last year, buyers were reading a lot of conflicting information in the media which made them hold back, thinking the market would continue to fall. Now that buyers are buying it will create a more balanced market. A good time to sell or buy.

Although sales are picking up, as you can see, the average days on market are still higher than they were a year ago. Part of the reason for this is inaccurate pricing. Last year the average sale price came down in all the surrounding towns except for Concord. It was tough for Sellers to accept this and the tendency was to start at what they thought was the right price. Buyers were not buying at the higher prices, and waited for the prices to come down. This increased the market time in all areas. In a market such as this, it becomes more important to consult with an agent that has the depth of experience and knowledge required to help position your property correctly in the marketplace.
