Dear Marc Takacs,

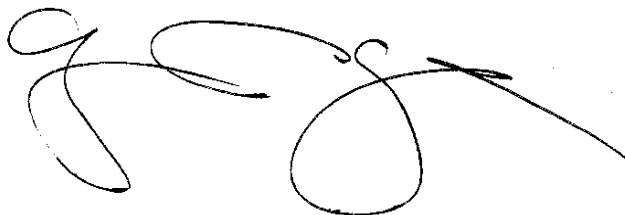

Little did I know when I asked you to "Start looking around for me, no hurry, let's go window shopping for a loft....", that within a few weeks I would be the proud holder of contract on a great little loft-ominium in Inman Park Village.

I had an absolute blast going around with you at all parts of the city, to all sorts of lofts. By the end of the day, you knew me well enough to explain my peculiar tastes and values to the selling agent with a quick aside: "She's a hippie." And I knew you well enough that when I knew the loft was for me -- when I saw the great view of the neighborhood from the balcony---I could turn matters over to you and ask you to start talking turkey with the seller.

You have handled every detail since. More importantly, you have filled the role of Big Brother, keeping me on track, while understanding the whirlwind I am.

It has been a pleasure working with you, and I commend for fulfilling your role so capably.

Your, with gratitude and appreciation,
