

FIGURE 32 If sellers fall behind a market with falling home values, they can end up chasing the market down, because home values are always falling faster than their price reductions.