

About The Team

In 2013 when Stephanie joined our team we decided to make it a group! We have branded ourselves and upgraded our entire marketing modules. We have designed new reflective signs, formulated a digital marketing presentation now on tablets, created more social media outlets with a Martin Home Group blog and Facebook page plus LindedIn, have interactive e-signatures in our emails that let you search for homes directly from there! Keller Williams has the first GPS interactive phone APP that lets you see active homes from your current location and even tells you where the Open Houses are relative to your location when you are already out and about! And there's more! Try our new website: MartinHomeGroup.info. Be sure to click throughout the website to see newsletters and brochures that turn pages, that search where you want to go and all so effortlessly! We've worked to create a streamlined easy-to-navigate website that has all the information you need before you enter the housing market, to guide you throughout the process, and after your purchase too!

We are now an exceptional full service team of 3 for personal, hands-on service for all your residential needs. Beyond normal job descriptions, we assist you long before you need to prepare for selling or buying providing and assisting with honest and professional information helpful in making those long term investment decisions. We provide reliable contractors to get your home into selling condition; we have stagers, photographers and great home inspectors. Educated in new construction, we can review your plans to help assure that the architectural plans account for all your needs; we even advise those who are trying to decide between adding on or moving! For those who are transferring or moving into another state, we have a network of agents to help coordinate a smooth transition for your and your family.

We work with several large companies helping people move to and from Atlanta. We cater to those out-of-town sellers and buyers who need additional assistance taking care of your needs while away. We specialize in letting you tend to your new needs away from Atlanta. In this everchanging market, we handle rentals as well. Call on us to help you decide what your next move will be!
